Personal Acknowledgments

We are most grateful to SAGE Publications for the opportunity to work on this project and to Jerry Westby for his patience and assistance.

I am thankful to have had the opportunity to collaborate with Kristen Johnson who provided extensive legal research and astute insight on Virginia criminal law. Her legal knowledge, research skills and work ethic served to make this endeavor relatively non-laborious and even pleasurable. She also was a great asset to me as a graduate teaching associate in Criminal Law and Procedure.

I would like to express my sincerest appreciation to my family and friends who have supported me with this endeavor, especially my parents Glen and Elizabeth Johnson, and John Heath. I also wish to thank my professors at T.C. Williams School of Law at the University of Richmond for providing me with such an outstanding legal education. My gratitude extends to Dr. William C. Boshier, my mentor and friend at the Wilder School, and to Dr. Glenn Coffey for embracing my collaboration on this project.

Note: All statutes were retrieved from the Code of Virginia. Only relevant portions thereof were placed in the text. All cases were retrieved from Westlaw. Cases were edited for relevance, clarity and readability. See original cases for complete text. Information in chapter overviews is obtained from the original text, Contemporary Criminal Law: Concepts, Cases, and Controversies, by Matthew Lippman.
