SAGE navigator

Do your students get lost in the sea of research resources available to them?

Do they struggle to identify the most important literature in their field?

SAGE Navigator can help. It is the only resource that provides access to the seminal pieces in the literature on 300+ topics. These key readings have been hand-selected and contextualized by experts in their field, giving your students the confidence that these resources are exactly what they need to kick start their literature search and review process.

As a boost for the research projects of graduate students and faculty members in the social sciences, SAGE Navigator would be a useful addition for many academic libraries. Particularly well served would be institutions emphasizing the fields of business, education, political science, and sociology

What does SAGE Navigator provide?

- An extensive guide to each topic by a leading academic in the field
- A list of between 60-120 recommended key readings for each topic – journals articles, book chapters and more – from over 1,000 publishers
- Abstracts or extracts for key readings with links to the full text where available
- An interactive chronology which visualizes the development of research over time

How does it benefit researchers, faculty and students?

- Saves time – researchers can quickly and easily select the best quality literature in their chosen field or topic
- Gives confidence in research - it brings a voice of authority to their literature review
- Opens up research opportunities – the chronology shows patterns or gaps in the research

To make SAGE Navigator even more powerful, it is hosted on SAGE Knowledge, the easy-to-use platform which provides electronic access to thousands of SAGE titles. SAGE Navigator enables researchers undertaking a literature search or review to quickly and easily discover the seminal works in their field from one source.

The screenshot displays the SAGE Navigator interface for the book 'Educational Leadership and Administration' by Fenwick W. English. The interface includes a 'Multiple citation options' callout pointing to the 'Add to My Lists', 'Find in print', 'Export citation', 'Download', and 'View full screen' buttons. A 'Suggested related keywords and titles' callout points to the 'Related Keywords' section, which lists terms like 'educational administration' and 'educational leadership'. Another callout, 'Interactive chronology of research', points to the 'Chronology of Educational Leadership and Administration' graph, which shows a timeline from 1970 to 2010 with colored dots representing different volumes. A final callout, 'Biographies of key authors', points to the 'My Knowledge' section, which includes a sign-in prompt and a 'More from Fenwick English' link.
